CAMPUS NOTES

BY TRENT TILBURY SPORTS INFORMATION DIRECTOR

He was the water-boy for the Concordia Stingers' football team in 1978. His father was the offensive line coach and was in charge of concessions on game days. This youngster went on to play for the Miami Hurricanes. He was the 5th player taken in the N.F.L. draft in 1987 and recently signed a $2.3 million contract with the Houston Oilers. He also helped sell chocolate bars in the Newman was filming the megahit "Quintet" when his crew began itching for a game of shinny. Concordia let them use their Loyola rink and Newman suited up. He was kind enough to pose for a few pic-

Other famous personalities have been guests of the Athletic department in the last few years. They include: Charlie's Angel Kate Jackson and brat packer Vince Van Patten.

We have the athletes

The Women's hockey team were recently surveyed as to who their favourite hockey team was. The Montreal Canadiens were the overwhelming choice of the Stingers as 12 out of 13 gave them the thumbs up sign. It seems Mats Naslund also has quite a following amongst the lady pucksters.

The Stingers also possess three exceptional student athletes in Therese Brisson, Debbie Gill and Karen Kane. All three of these hockey players are Dean's list students which bodes well for the whole Athletic department, particularly women's athletics.

Defenceman Marc Lalonde of the men's hockey team was on a Memorial Cup team in 1980-81. Two of his teammates and friends on the Cornwall Royals that year were Doug Gilmour of the St. Louis Blues and Dale Hawerchuk who plays for the Winnipeg Jets. Both of these superstars were on Team Canada in the recent Canada Cup.

The Stingers hockey team has become a haven for N.C.A.A. transfers in recent years. Goaltender Dave Sharpe - Ferris State, Forward Mike Deegan U. of Illinois-Chicago, Forward Richard Laplante - U. of Vermont, Defenceman Martin Foy - Bowling Green and Forward Kenny Marshall - Bowling Green are all regulars with the Stingers. As well, forward Jim "Rebel" Stevenson was a star pitcher for U. of Mississippi before transferring to Concordia. A general consensus among the players is that U.S. college hockey is not all that it is cracked up to be. "The level of educational instruction pales in comparison to a Canadian university," was heard very often among these players.

N.B.A. player Michael Jordan is a big favourite among the Stingers basketball players. He was listed on 12 out of 14 top 5 player lists of the basketball team. Co-captain Bob Verrelli was pleased with Coach Doug Daigneault's recruiting job this year. Not only are Dino Perin and Ernest Rosa outstanding ball players, but they swell the Italian connection to three on the team. Verrelli and his Sports Administration classmates are also involved in a project that will increase the exposure of all the Stinger teams. Stay tuned for more on this matter.

The Stinger women's basketball team is perhaps the youngest in the nation. With third year players Marina Scassa and Karen Licorish the seasoned veterans on the team. There are four second year players and six rookies on this year's edition. Guard Carol Assalian and forwards Carole McIntyre and Suzi Czelnai were part of the gold medal winning Quebec entry in the 1987 Canada Winter Games. Lina Fasone, a second year guard, is also a Dean's list student. Who says athletics and academics don't mix?

hockey rink concession. Alonzo Highsmith has come a long way since 1978 and probably has enough money to buy a C.F.L. franchise. His father Wally Highsmith was a well regarded coach from 1978-81 for the Stingers football team. He was a groomsman at head football coach Skip Rochette's wedding. Wally is now the defensive coordinator for Florida A & M.

Gould was making the movie "Dirty Tricks" which was filmed in part at the Concordia gymnasium. With "no smoking" signs posted all over the athletic complex he sought refuge in secretary Linda Corrigan's office.

"He noticed that the other secretary and myself were smokers, so he sat himself down like one of the students and we had a smoke together," Corrigan recalled.

The road to service!

Leadership development for women is top priority

By Dr. Judy Gill

Kathy McDonald has a vision. As Associate Director of Women's Programs in the athletics department, she wants Concordia University to be a leader in Quebec and Canada in advancing women in sport. No one can deny that there is a great need.

In their report on the status of women's athletics in the Canadian Interuniversity

Athletic Union during 1978 to 1982, the CIAU found that at every university, "men outnumbered women as athletes by a ratio of 2.4 to 1.0; as head coaches, 3.7 to 1.0; as administrators, 3.1 to 1.0; as voting delegates, 2.5 to 1.0; as committee members, 2.0 to 1.0." Although a decline of women appointed as head coaches was reported, the number of men full-time and part-time coaches of women's programs increased. In fact, 52% of the full-time and 72% of the part-time coaching positions in women's sports were held by men. Finally, although women have found careers in increasing numbers in other traditionally male fields, they have lost ground relative to men as both coaches and administrators in the CIAU since 1978.

Undoubtedly, none of this information is new to women involved in sports in Quebec who have experienced it first hand. Indeed, this province was the worst in every category examined by the CIAU for sex discrimination.

Thus, Kathy and her staff have been working hard to improve the conditions for women in sport at Concordia. In this quest, they recently hosted the first women's national soccer finals. Neil Turnbull, the women's national soccer coach, was imported to run a clinic that same weekend to upgrade the coaching of Canadian university women. The development of soccer for women in both the Canadian Soccer Association and the CIAU was also discussed, and a national coaching committee was established. Kathy believes strongly that clinics like these are vital if the level of coaching for women is to improve, and to encourage more women to get involved as coaches.

To increase the opportunities for women to compete at Concordia, volleyball has been added as a club sport. This then increases to four the number of CIAU sports available to women on campus. In addition, women's ice hockey may become a QUAA sport for the first time this year. Thus Concordia is taking its place in the province and country as a leader in women's sports. This should be no surprise with Kathy McDonald at the helm. She has a long history of achievement in this area.

In 1980 Kathy helped start and was the first coordinator of WASA - Women Active in Sport Administration, a professional network for Ontario women. At the federal level she helped found "Au Feminine: Sport and Fitness", an organization established to act as advocates, and provide support and educational opportunities for women.

During her four and a half year tenure as the manager of the Women's Program of Fitness and Amateur Sport, she implemented the National Associations Contributions Program which gave money to various national sports groups to improve the status of women in their organizations. The Women in Sport Leadership Program was another of her successful projects establishing internships to train women for jobs in middle and upper management in sports and fitness agencies. She also had the opportunity to develop liaisons with many different womens groups, contacts which prove invaluable to Concordia students today.

Kathy is a founding member of the Canadian Association for the Advancement of Women and Sport (CAAWS), and was a member of their Board of Directors. During their recent sixth Annual Conference: Legislating for Social Change, she was one of the major presentors introducing a policy manual to help women across Canada initiate legislative change with regards to women in sport.

As one can see, Kathy McDonald has a long tradition of working with women to improve their lot in sport, something, that was a long time in coming and badly needed at Concordia.

WRESTLING

Concordia wrestlers Serge Marcel and Pat Sullivan won their respective weight classes at the 1987 Commonwealth Championships October 9-10 in Cyprus. November 2nd to 9th the Canadian National wrestling team competed in the Pre-Olympic Wrestling Tournament in Seoul South Korea. Travelling with the National team to Korea, were Olympic Coach Victor Zilberman, Team Psychologist Dr. Dan Marisi, and wrestlers Pat Sullivan, Robert Dawson and Doug Yeats. The USA, Soviet, Bulgarian and other strong nations also competed in this tournament.

Robert Moore:

In September 1987 the Concordia University wrestling team acquired a positive addition in coach Rob Moore, who will also be coaching with the Montreal Wrestling Club. Originally from Toronto, Rob Moore trained as a wrestler under Victor Zilberman in the late 1970's. He then moved on to coaching at the University of Regina, head coach at the University of Regina; Ontario and then the University of Saskatchewan wrestling teams. Rob brings with him the experience of working with numerous national teams, i.e. the 1987

Challenge Cup, 1987 World Championship and many others. Administratively Mr. Moore is actively involved with the Canadian Amateur Wrestling Association in the capacity of president. The rapidly growing Concordia University Wrestling Team and Montreal Wrestling Club will certainly benefit from the expertise and enthusiasm of Rob Moore. Welcome back to Montreal, Rob.

Coaching staff of Concordia University: Wrestling

In the past few years the Concordia University wrestling program has grown and expanded. To ensure consistency in performance the Club program (Montreal Wrestling Club) had to be further developed as well as make efforts to initiate and develop high school programs in the Montreal area. To accomplish these objectives - high school, varsity to international level - quality coaching is required to work with the team. Besides Victor Zilberman, working with the team are Bruce Ross, Rob Moore, Sport Psychologist Dr. Dan Marisi, Mike Sullivan, as well as Mrs. Chris Zilberman assisting in the administrative aspects of the program. Also pitching in are veterans Gary Kallos and Doug Yeats. Sponsoring travel to various events is Jaymar Ltd. President, Mr. George Reinitz, a former Canadian champion.

NHL Bound?

George Hanson
Glenn Sather, who has been a triple threat with Edmonton Oilers as coach-general manager-president, was what they call a "journeyman" player during his National Hockey League playing career. That is a euphemism for anyone with minimal talent but maximum willingness to work.

What is more significant concerning Sather's playing career is that he spent this spare time studying child psychology. In itself, that opens some wonderful comedic possibilities given the general perception of the average professional athlete and his attitudes.

Resisting impulse to follow that line, we come to the point of the new-breed of hockey coach, the so-called educated one. This is the breed gradually taking over the game and it would appear it is more than coincidental that even the most tradition bound old-timer admits the game, and its players, are taking on new dimensions of speed and skill.

In a random aside to all of this, one only has to look at a Paul Arsenault and wonder when his turn will come. Paul has coached more than 500 winning hockey games and ranks No. 2 in North American college hockey circles with that number. Is there, or will there be, a place for Paul Arsenault in the NHL one day?

It's a pleasant prospect because here's a man who has done it all. He was a standout as a player at University of New Brunswick but wasn't given a serious look by the NHL because (a) he was a "little" guy in the rough and tumble days of the six team pro league and (b) in that rough and tumble six-team league, colleges were about the last place talent was hunted.

There has been a tremendous evolution (some prefer to call it awakening) in pro hockey in this respect. Decades ago, there were the conversation piece exceptions. When Jack Gelineau came out of McGill and proved himself a great goaltender with Boston, it was considered a fluke.

In more recent times, Red Berenson got as much attention for the fact he was a university graduate as for his playing skills with several NHL teams - including the Canadiens. Even more recently, goaler Ken Dryden was in the same situation.

But then the trickle became a steady flow which must become a flood because (as predicted by many people two decades ago) the American athletic factories are beginning to get into full production of hockey players, just as they spew out football and basketball talent with sheepskins.

The combination of players who can read newspapers without moving their lips and a realization that the Soviets have become a hockey power - overnight, in terms of time - by studying and analysing the game, has created a gradual demand for a different type of coach.

The old school coaching was intimidation and some basic strategy. Especially in the six team league, there were so many more players than there were jobs, that the coach was lord and master. As for the art of teaching, it is hard to believe but, until the Soviets physically "created" a Vladislav Tretiak, nobody in North America was capable of coaching a goaltender because nobody understood, or had studied, the position.

SPRINGATE SAYS

George Springate

Where is everybody?

The few who attend Stinger games always ask this question. They look around the empty arena, gym, football or soccer stadium and see nothing but vacant seats. And they come to the only logical conclusion that fits: Concordia students, some 26,000 strong, don't care about their teams.

Less than 100 fans attend the hockey games despite winning squads. Soccer? A telephone booth holds more people than those who come out to see those matches. Basketball? Identical to the hockey numbers. Football you say? I attended two games this fall when less than 1,500 showed up. Wrestling, skiing, volleyball and the like draw flies as well.

This complete and utter lack of support that the student body gives to it's representatives in inter-university athletics forces one to ask a basic question: Should Concordia do away with it's elite teams and concentrate solely on mass participation events? Or, put another way, should money-tight Concordia have four full-time coaches, an administrative staff, public relations personnel, and numerous part-time coaches to satisfy the needs of less than one percent of the student population, while spending the vast majority of the funds allocated to sports at the school?

Less than one percent of the 26,000 full and part-time student body, and these few spend some 80 percent of the sport's money available at the university. The other 99 percent of the student population have to make do with the rest for their intramurals, instruction and recreation activities.

In theory, a university elite team brings tremendous prestige and notoriety to the school. Supposedly, the university name is constantly mentioned in the sport's pages of the local press, the scores are pronounced by radio and television types during their broadcasts, and once in a while a feature will be done on one of the student athletes that brings honour to the whole student body. But has this occurred at Concordia?

TSN, Canada's television sport's network has broadcast football, basketball and hockey games from close to every campus in the nation but they will be getting out of university games. The reason is simple. There is no atmosphere; too many games beamed across the silver screen with no one in the stands. TSN is fed up. If the students fail to support and encourage their teams, why should they? Their marketing surveys have demonstrated that university games fare badly when compared to Australian football and the Hulk Hogan wrestling circus.

In the future, university championship matches in hockey and football will be purchased by the networks. All other games will not be broadcast at all. Soccer, basketball, volleyball and the rest will be seen only by those in the stands. No women's games will be shown regardless of the sport.

The sole ones to blame are the students. Where are they all on game day? Concordia faces an interesting future. Much has been said about remodelling the football field and bringing up the stands from Verdun. This is a great idea but are the stands needed? Couldn't the money be better spent? If so few people come out to see the football and soccer teams play, why does Concordia require the elaborate stands? They don't. The money can be given to upgrading the intramural, instruction and recreation programs at the school.

The building campaign has raised more than $20 million. Another $5 million is being sought. How much of the money is earmarked for athletics? In typical fashion the school's administrators continually talk about the need for a new sport's complex for Concordia but always duck the issue of when funding will be available. One day, though, they too will have to bite the bullet and announce a building plan for athletics and sports. But before the school does that, the administrators will have to make a basic decision about the future of Concordia. That decision will revolved around the question of elite sports versus mass participation. If the scene at other

Quebec-based universities can be used as a guideline, intramurals will win out and the elite inter-university teams will be phased out.

In Quebec today, there are but three university hockey teams on the men's side. There are only three football teams. Basketball is the same. The University of Montreal has been absent from the elite scene for a decade. Laval has dropped the expensive sports. The University of Quebec has very few elite teams. The situation is drastic. So pressed are Quebec-based teams that they were forced to join the Ontario leagues to survive. This fact alone has university people thinking more and more about mass participation.

This could change. You could alter the thinking. You can do so by attending the games. Your absence speaks volumes. No other surveys need be taken.

Athletics Department Curtails cigarette ads

The Department of Fitness, Recreation and Athletics is no longer accepting contracts for cigarette/tobacco advertising in any of its publications including The Sting. Contracts now in effect will be honoured or mutually terminated pending discussion with advertisers.

The Department of Fitness, Recreation and Athletics joins the university administration and concerned student and staff groups in trying to discourage the use of tobacco and supports efforts being made to sensitize the Concordia community of the potential health hazards of smoking.

Soccer Stingers Sink

The Concordia Men's Soccer Stingers captured first place in the QUAA this season but failed to qualify for the National Championships when they were beaten in a shootout by McGill. The Stingers finished the regular season with 7 victories in 8 tries losing only to McGill. In fact the Stingers and Redmen split 1-0 victories during the two regular season meetings with both wins going to the home side.

However the Redmen put up a determined effort in the final at Loyola holding Concordia 1-1 through 30 minutes of extra time before outscoring the Stingers in the shootout. It was a tough way to lose for Andy Onarato's club. The Stingers had plenty of opportunities to put McGill away including a miss of an empty net from 20 feet away in the opening minute and a miss from a corner 30 seconds from the end. As well the Redmen played the final 10 minutes with 10 players following an ejection. The McGill goal came on a penalty kick after Pat Musson had put the Stingers ahead.

N.B.C. Women Victorious

Concordia University hosted the first ever CIAU Women's National Soccer Championships November 14-15. Semi-final games were held on Saturday, November 14th at Loyola while the final was held at McGill on November 15th in conjunction with the men's final. Quebec's representative from the University of Sherbrooke lost 4-1 to UBC in the first round while McMaster edged Acadia 1-0 to advance. UBC took the title with a 3-2 penalty kick win in the inaugural championship game.

The Lady Stingers finished the regular season in 3rd place with a record of 1-2-3. Coach Kathy Lipari's team then lost 1-0 at McGill in the semi-final.

McGill was beaten 2-1 by Sherbrooke in the QUAA title game.

Concordia's All Canadians

The great ones, and the mediocre ones, learned on the job. The game was that primitive.

Clarence Campbell, the long-time president of the NHL, recognized what was happening in the game and often said the "Snowbank philosophy" had to change. Translated, snowbank philosophy meant learning at the rink.

Much of the game is learning at the rink but it has become much more than that. Hockey has been forced to accept (again, due to the Soviet approach) that many scientific factors can be applied to make the game and the athletes better. The coach who can appreciate this, and who has teaching skills, is essential to the modern game and the personalities and characters of those playing it.

Of the old guard, a Scotty Bowman was an exception. Though lacking formal education, he had insatiable curiosity and was willing to try anything new to improve his team and the players.

Intellectually, he grew with the times.

Two weeks ago, Sir George Williams University grad, Ron Lapointe, was named head coach of the Quebec Nordiques. Lapointe was team captain from 1972-75; and help the S.G.W.Q. squad capture two league titles. He assisted Paul Arsenault behind the Stinger's bench in 1983.

More and more, the men behind the benches are university educated and did their early coaching at that level - a la Jean Peron, with the Canadiens. A Tom Watt, who was University of Toronto's equivalent to Paul Arsenault, had to be lured to the NHL. Now the numbers are growing and the latest generation isn't as reluctant as was Watt because the acceptance level is becoming increasingly high.

All of which completes the circle of how this piece started. At Concordia, a 500-game plus coaching winner. A man who knows the game and understands the athletes. When will Paul get his NHL opportunity?

For head coach Skip Rochette and his young Stingers, the 87 season can be viewed as both a learning experience and as an investment in the future. Evidence of the team's youth and promise includes a three point loss to the C.I.A.U. Vanier Cup champions, the McGill Redmen, and a final game line-up that included 39 of 40 potential returnees for 1988.

The Stingers finished the campaign in fifth place with a 2-5 record. They also won their only exhibition game. The year before the club was dead last in the O-

QIFC at 1-6 and lost their lone pre-season encounter. "Considering our pre-season ranking I think you have to be pleased with our performance", says Stingers head coach Skip Rochette. "After all there are only 23 university football teams in Canada. We were ranked 21 st. It is just too bad we didn't make the playoffs. But we know we'll be there next year."

Season in retrospect

The 1987 season opened on a positive note with an 18-7 win over non-conference rival York. A strong defensive effort characterized this opening game victory with the Yeomen, and their highly regarded quarterback Adam Karlsson being limited to 140 yards total offense. The opening game of the regular season saw the Stingers travel to Kingston to meet traditional conference powerhouse Queen's. The Stingers played perhaps their finest game of the season in a determined 27-20 victory over the Golden Gaels. Although the win was characterized by a tremendous team effort, this game also marked the emergence of quarterback Ron Aboud as one of the top pivots in the CIAU. Undaunted by a starting offense that included seven first-year starters, Aboud completed 9 of 19 passes for 227 yards and two touchdowns.

Cross town rival McGill awaited the Stingers in the annual Shaughnessy Cup game on September 19. After overcoming a 21-8 halftime deficit to trail 21-19, the Stingers fell victim to the strong fourth quarter running of McGill's Michael Soles in a 31-20 loss to the Redmen. The play of the game for Concordia was an 81 yard pass and run touchdown from backup quarterback, Steve Batty to Mirco Buth. Inconsistency in the kicking game and turnovers marked this first loss of the season.

Week four meant the arrival of the Ottawa Gee Gees to the Loyola Campus. A strong defense led by veterans Martin Ferdais and Dave Cescon limited Ottawa to a first quarter touchdown and 213 yards offense in an 18-9 Concordia victory.

A trip down to Lennoxville for Game 4 saw the host Bishop's University Gaiters defeat the Stingers 38-12. "Quite frankly all my fears came out right there," said Rochette. "Bishop's really took it to us."

More than 2,000 fans were on hand at the Loyola Field the next week to watch a great game between the two 15 yard lines. McGill scored a 7-4 victory. The two kickers, Chuck Petipas of the Redmen and Concordia's Jean Perreault accounted for all the scoring.

Bishop's were the next team to come to town and Loyola was rocking. Indian summer was in the air and school spirit was at its very best. But so were the powerful Gaiters, who survived an early scare from Concordia to win 33-16. On the opening play of the game Stinger rookie Johnny Dilegge recovered his own kick off in the Bishop's end zone for the touchdown.

So, for the second year in a row, it all came down to the final game of the season. A poor start put the Stingers in a hole as they found themselves down 24-1 to Carleton after 14 minutes. But one of the most tremendous comebacks in recent team history followed. "We lost and that was very disappointing," noted Rochette. "But we showed a lot of things in that second half. Our offence just kept getting better. The defence hung tough despite the fact we were hit with so many injuries. The effort shown by the players was terrific."

Bertone and Aboud cop individual honors

On the positive side of the ledger, the 1987 season closed with the selection of offensive lineman

Mike Bertone as an O.Q.I.F.C. All-Star. He was selected as a 1987 All-Canadian in the tradition of past

Concordia All-Canadian offensive linemen Rocco Romano, Paul Palma and Nick Benjamin.

For his part, quarterback Ron Aboud was selected as the O.Q.I.F.C. top rookie. The talented quarterback was described by Coach Rochette as, "the finest freshman quarterback I have seen in my years in college football", will undoubtedly serve as the cornerstone of the Stinger's offense in the years to come.

Organization gains momentum

1988 marks the third year of the Concordia Ski Team as a democratic student-run organization and its ninth season with the Q.U.A.A. alpine circuit. Last year brought significant improvements to the team both structurally and financially. This year the team is reaping the benefits of one of its most profitable ski sales ever, allowing for a budget which covers virtually all aspects of training and competition for the 1988 season. The team is presently involved in a rigorous dry land training program, preparing the racers for the upcoming season.

New talent joins with old

This year the ski team presents more depth and balance than in previous years. The stars of yesteryear, Laurent Beauchemin and Jeanique Snyder (4th place women's overall in 1986) are gone but fresh new talent fills their place.

Last year the women placed third in the team standings after a heated battle with McGill. This year with the addition of a well balanced squad of female racers including returning veterans Renata Scheib, Anni Caron and rookie sensation Pascale Savard, Concordia will be shooting for the pennant.

For the men, two seeded veterans Marc Seheib and Stephane Rivard will be joined by a pair of speedy rookies, Robert Seguin and André Choquet.

Loss as good as win?

If a tie is like kissing your brother then what about a loss? Not too bad actually especially if you haven't won a league game in two years and you're trailing by sixteen points with less than eight minutes to play, and against a very good team.

That was the situation facing the Lady Stingers Basketball team on October 30th at the Complex against Dalhousie. Then the real Stingers took over scoring 14 straight points to cut the lead to 63-61 with eleven seconds showing on the clock. The dazed Tigers, who had dominated the first 32 minutes, came up the court and again the Stingers stripped the ball away. Now with three seconds to go Concordia's Suzi Czelnai puts up a shot from the top of key. The ball hits the rim and rebounds right back to her. This time Suzi shoots and is fouled. Three point play; a big win for the Stingers. One referee signals foul but the other says Suzi travelled and the game is over. But this is not just another loss. This game makes believers out of the Stingers players and breaks the losing attitude that had settled in after two years of confusion and frustration. The next day Concordia beat Brandon 79-39. It was a long way from a league title, or even from a league win, but it signals a new beginning.

Pepsi crown goes to McGill

The McGill University Martlets, behind the 33 point performance of Helene Cowan, downed the University of Prince Edward Island 75-63 to capture the First Annual Pepsi Invitational Women's Basketball Tournament held November 20-22 at Concordia.

The eight team event featured some great basketball as McGill advanced to the final by beating Ottawa 67-61 and Laurentian 69-68.

U.P.E.I. edged the Montreal All-Stars 59-54 and then got by the host Stingers 70-51.

Concordia continued its surge toward becoming a contender with a good tournament showing. Louisa Zerbe's squad beat Carleton 62-58 on Carol Assalian's 17 points performance and finished with a 65-46 loss to powerful Laurentian in what was a six point game into the final ten minutes.

Impressive Beginning

The men's hockey team has had an impressive start to the 1987-88 season. With a 5-1-2 record, the Stingers appear to be headed to a playoff spot after missing QUAA post-season play 2 out of the last 3 seasons. The new 17 team Ontario circuit features 3 divisions with Concordia in the OUAA East. Current national champion UQTR will provide stiff competition for the Stingers. However, this year's squad will be up to the task.

For the first time in 3 years the Stingers have more than one player who can put the puck in the net. This year's edition has 5 legitimate sharpshooters and several good set-up men. 4 of the big gunners this year were not with Concordia last year.

Richard Laplante has had a tremendous start in his first year with the Maroon and Gold. He has already gained national prominence by being named CIAU ATHLETE OF THE WEEK on November 9th. This honour was a direct result of a 5 goal performance against Ryerson on November 7th. Laplante has 18 goals and 21 assists in only 15 games. Not bad for a first-year player.

Another first year Stinger but a veteran of the hockey wars is Andre Chartrain. A former pro in the Quebec Nordique's farm system, Chartrain is the trigger on the power play. He adds experience and leadership to the Stinger attack.

Two other consistent goal scorers that took a year off from the team are Mike Deegan and Richard Vermette. They are both averaging over a point per game. Vermette has teamed up with Laplante to form Concordia's version of the "French Connection". Deegan is one of the unsung heroes on the Stingers. He will be an offensive sparkplug in Arsenault's scheme of things this year.

The last member of the big five is Captain Mark Mahon. The sophomore forward has improved his offensive skills to the point where he is the best 2-way forward in the O.U.A.A. Mahon has had a tremendous start with 15 goals in 15 games to date.

Concordia is certain to crack Canada's top ten with these 5 key players and the other stars. The Stingers are well balanced this season and for the first time in years, coach Paul Arsenault has a legitimate shot at a trip to the national finals.

The Hoop Scoop-year to date

The men's basketball team has been very busy in preparation for their season opener in early December. The Stingers competed in four tournaments in the month of November including their own Centennial Hoop Classic.

The Stingers captured the championship trophy in the Centennial Classic with a thrilling 95-91 triumph over the Dalhousie University Tigers. Concordia, the defending QUAA champions, received outstanding individual performances from sophomore Nick Arvanitis, rookie centre Dino Perin and first year guard Michael Cohee. Arvanitis averaged 23 points in the tournament and was named M.V.P. Perin, a standout performer for Vanier College last season, had 25 points in the championship final. Cohee gave a good indication of his shooting ability with a 19 point performance in the win over Dalhousie.

Next on the basketball agenda was the McGill Redmen Invitational, November 13-15. The Stingers rebounded from a disappointing opening game loss, to win the consolation final of the tournament 83-70 over Laurentian.

"We put together the finest 10 minutes of basketball I have ever seen from this team," said Coach Doug Daigneault. "The Players executed well throughout the game especially in the second half."

Nick Arvanitis had a strong tournament with 58 points and 27 rebounds. He was selected to the tournament all-star team based on his fine play.

Concordia travelled to Toronto November 19-21 for the prestigious National Invitational Tournament. The Stingers defeated St. Mary's 68-66 in their opening game. The young Concordia team then had losses against Canada's 5th ranked Toronto and 8th ranked Western Ontario. Michael Cohee averaged 19 points per game in the tourney.

The Stingers regrouped for the Queen's Tournament played on November 27-29. The team played inspired basketball and finished 3rd in the tournament. They took bronze with a convincing 88-64 victory over Mt. Allison as Nick Arvanitis and co-captain Parnell Joseph had 17 and 13 points respectively.

Concordia opened up with an impressive victory over Windsor; 91-83. Michael Cohee set a team record by sinking 19 of 22 free throws. Cohee finished with 29 points and rookie Ernie Rosa had a strong game with 20 points and 8 rebounds. The game of the tournament featured 8th ranked Western and the Stingers. Concordia had lost to the Mustangs by 15 the previous weekend and an upset was in the making. However, Western scored with 3 seconds left on an obvious charge to steal a 70-68 victory from the Stingers.

With impressive newcomers like QUAA scholarship winner Dino Perin, hot-shooting Michael Cohee and inspirational Ernie Rosa, look for the Stingers to be tough in the stretch drive. Add these outstanding newcomers to the list of key returnees such as Nick Arvanitis, Parnell Joseph and Bobby Verrelli and you get a national contender.

Don't miss the home opener on Friday, January 8 against St. Francis Xavier.

RECREATION

Intramural Hockey League

The first half of the CIHL season is coming to a close. This semester saw a repeat of the tremendous interest shown last year as there are now over 1,000 students participating in the league. Over the holidays, teams that are either too strong or too weak for their division will be repositioned so that they will have an even chance at a playoff position.

Because of the continued popularity of the league, a 7th division had to be added mid-season to accommodate some 125 players on the waiting list, most of whom are new to the league. In fact, there are a total of 14 new teams and close to 300 new players in the league this year.

Last year's champs, the Ice Sharks, seem to be having an easier time of it than they did last year, but next semester they will have to face the much-improved MBA Mustangs from the second division. The Mustangs, who are one of only two undefeated teams so far this season, and the Engineering and Computer Science students association will each be holding international tournaments in January. Admission to both tournaments will be free of charge.

NEW PROGRAMS FOR WINTER '88

Women's Self-Defense

You do not have to worry about conflicts with your academic classes since the program will take place Saturday mornings at Victoria Gym. Steve Quiblat, who together with Mike Gregory of the Tae Kwon Do Club has designed the course, will be assisted by Roch Boucher. The 10-week course will begin on January 23rd. The topics covered will include self-defense theory and strategy, basic release and defense techniques, as well as open discussions. For more detailed information, call Steve Quiblat at 848-3860.

"Employees Only" Fitness

Fitness is not just for students. Now is your chance to join an aerobic/fitness class offered for staff and faculty only. It is designed to get you fit, or keep you that way, in a progressive fashion throughout the program. It will be held twice a week starting in January at Birk's Hall (Norris Building) at the time deemed most appropriate for prospective participants. At the moment we are considering morning classes either 7:15 to 8:00 or 8:00 to 8:45, or early evening classes from 5:15 to 6:00 - 6:45. To cast your vote for the time slot you prefer for this class, call 848-3860. Once a time has been confirmed a flyer will be sent to all departments, so keep an eye out for it in early January. The class will be running for ten weeks for a mere $20.00.
